

Minor in International Agriculture, Food & Natural Resources

Questions should be directed to the Office of Academic Programs (cafnradvising@missouri.edu).

The world is becoming increasingly complex and integrated in nearly every category of human endeavor. An understanding of how global markets, natural resources, food production, and international trade and cooperation are affected by societies, languages, cultures, and governments is an essential component of a well-rounded 21st century education in AFNR. To facilitate these studies, the multidisciplinary International AFNR Minor offers academic recognition for achieving a level of expertise in coursework of international focus.

Requirements

- Fifteen credit hours (select from below) are required for the minor.
- At least 6 credit hours must be at the 3000 or 4000 level.

Although the focus of this minor is not to add foreign language skills, students are strongly encouraged to invest in language to make themselves more competent in the international arena, to gain a competitive advantage for employment, and to advance their careers overall.

Choose at least 15 hours from the following:

ABM 3271	International Agricultural Development	3
ABM 3272	International Food Trade and Policy	3
ABM 3150	International Agribusiness	3
ABM 3370	Transportation in the Global Supply Chain	3
ABM 4370	Society, Environment and Natural Resources	3
AFNR 2190	International Agriculture, Food and Natural Resources	3
AFNR 2191	International Agriculture, Food and Natural Resources - Humanities	3
AFNR 2192	International Agriculture, Food and Natural Resources-Social Science	3
AFNR 4993	Internship in Agriculture, Food and Natural Resources	3
AN_SCI 2110	Global Animal Agriculture	2
ATM_SC 3600	Climates of the World	3
ENV_SC 4400W	Environmental Law, Policy, and Justice - Writing Intensive	3
or ENV_SC 4400	Environmental Law, Policy, and Justice
F_S 1020	World Food and You	3
or F_S 1020H	World Food and You - Honors
F_S 2195	Grapes and Wines of the World	3
NEP 1310	Food and Cultures of the World	3
Foreign Language Course		4
Courses completed at and transferred from partner international institutions can also be considered.

Application for Minor

Students interested in declaring this minor should complete the online form here (https://musis2.missouri.edu/Minor_Declare/main.cfm).