

Graduate Certificate in Global Public Affairs

Requirements

An international public affairs experience is encouraged for one of the courses, but not required. The required course provides students with the comparative institutional and economic foundations to understand the complexities of governance and policy making internationally. The three elective courses, selected in consultation with the certificate coordinator, allow students to delve deeply into specific realms of global policy or governance. International experiences can come through an approved public affairs related internship or study abroad course.

Students must complete 12 credit hours to receive the certificate.

Students do not need to be enrolled in a graduate degree program at MU to participate in the program. The graduate certificate in public policy can be completed 100% online.
