Linguistics is the scientific study of human language. It seeks to understand and explain the properties of language in a clear and formal manner. Linguists document understudied and endangered languages, explore the consequences of language contact, measure language variation and change, investigate the structure of language, and analyze the construction of meaning.

Some of the main subfields of linguistics are phonetics (the physical properties of sounds), phonology (the grammar of sounds), morphology (the structure of words), syntax (the organization of phrases and sentences), semantics (meaning), and sociolinguistics (the interaction of language and society).

A Bachelor of Arts with a major in linguistics is available (with an honors option) as is a linguistics minor, both involving coursework in the various subfields.

The study of linguistics prepares students for careers which utilize insight into the workings of language including language instruction, translation and interpreting, speech pathology, anthropology, the reconstruction of prehistory, and computational fields related to the interaction of language and technology. Academic careers of linguistic research and teaching are also possible after further training at the graduate level.

In addition, a major in linguistics offers students a liberal education and develops verbal and analytical skills that are valuable in a variety of less directly related careers such as journalism, literary study, and the law.

The linguistics program is staffed by faculty from a number of MU departments. Supporting course work is offered in Communication, Speech, Language and Hearing Sciences, the College of Education, English, Psychology, Philosophy, and the School of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures.

Although specialists in the field commonly know two or more languages, such knowledge is complementary rather than essential.

Faculty

Professors: M. Gordon*, P. Weirich*
Associate Professors: A. Alcazar*, D. Fritz*, J. Goodman*, C. Horisk*, T. Kazic*, J. Kramer*, M. Marlo*, R. Pinnov*
Assistant Professors: R. Botezatu*, R. Grollemund*, A. Radulescu*
Emeritus Faculty: N. L. Furbee*, G. Youmans*, J. Zemke*

* Graduate Faculty Member - membership is required to teach graduate-level courses, chair master's thesis committees, and serve on doctoral examination and dissertation committees.
 Doctoral Faculty Member - membership is required to chair doctoral examination or dissertation committees. Graduate faculty membership is a prerequisite for Doctoral faculty membership.

Undergraduate

- BA in Linguistics (http://catalog.missouri.edu/collegeofartsandscience/linguistics/ba-linguistics/)
- Minor in Linguistics (http://catalog.missouri.edu/collegeofartsandscience/linguistics/linguistics/minor-linguistics/)

Departmental Honors

A student wishing to graduate with honors in Linguistics must earn a 3.3 GPA in all courses and complete all the requirements for the BA in Linguistics. In addition, with the assistance of their honors thesis advisor, the student must develop, plan and conduct research on an independent project, normally while enrolled in LINGST 4991. A committee consisting of the thesis advisor and a second reader, to be selected by the advisor and the program director, will examine the student on the resulting thesis of 25-40 pages in an oral exam held no later than the thirteenth week of the term during which the student expects to graduate. The second reader will be provided with a copy of the thesis at least two weeks before the examination. After completing any revisions that the exam committee recommends, the student will submit a final version of the thesis for linguistics program records and will then be recommended to the college of Arts and Science for a BA with Honors in Linguistics.

Graduate

- Graduate Minor in Linguistics (http://catalog.missouri.edu/collegeofartsandscience/linguistics/grad-minor-linguistics/)

Interdepartmental Program in the College of Arts and Science
335 Tate Hall
(573) 882-6421

Director of Linguistics: Matthew Gordon

A graduate minor in linguistics consists of at least 12 hours including two electives and two required courses: LINGST 7630 Phonology and LINGST 7640 Syntax. Electives are to be drawn from our list of upper level linguistics classes (see http://linguistics.missouri.edu/courses.html).

Graduate degrees in linguistics are not offered but MA and PhD programs that emphasize language and linguistics are available in some cooperating departments such as Anthropology, Communication, English, Romance Languages and Literatures, and Philosophy.

The linguistics area program is staffed by faculty from various departments (see below). Supporting course work may be drawn from a range of units including Anthropology, Black Studies, Classical Studies, Communication, the College of Education, English, German and Russian Studies, Psychology, Philosophy, Romance Languages and Literatures, and Speech, Language and Hearing Sciences.

Financial aid, when available, is arranged through the participating departments.

Cooperating Graduate Degree Programs

Anthropology (http://catalog.missouri.edu/collegeofartsandscience/anthropology/#graduatetext)

Interested Anthropology and other graduate students may minor in Linguistics. Linguistics is an integral component of ethnographic research.

Communication (http://catalog.missouri.edu/collegeofartsandscience/communication/#graduatetext)
In the Department of Communication, students learn to apply the study of communication to their professional and personal lives. Students may receive a MA, or PhD through this department.

Speech, Language and Hearing Sciences (http://catalog.missouri.edu/schoolofhealthprofessions/speechlanguagehearingsciences/#graduatetext)
The discipline of Speech, Language and Hearing Sciences encompasses the distinct but related fields of Speech-Language Pathology and Audiology. Students may receive a MA, or PhD through this department.

Linguistics (same as PSYCH 2820 and PHIL 2820). Cognitive science is a many-splendored thing. It draws on a variety of disciplines, including psychology, neuroscience, computer science, linguistics, anthropology, and philosophy. The purpose of this course is to introduce the central questions of cognitive science, the conceptual and empirical tools used to investigate those questions, and some of the answers that have emerged so far. After an initial overview of the foundations of the cognitive-scientific enterprise as a whole, we will see what particular sectors of it have to say about mental capacities such as language, categorization, reasoning, social cognition, and consciousness.

Credit Hours: 3
Prerequisites: sophomore standing required
Recommended: PSYCH 1000

LINGST 3001: Topics in Linguistics-General
Organized study of selected topics. Subjects and earnable credit may vary from semester to semester.

Credit Hour: 1-99
Prerequisites: consent of chair

LINGST 3010: American Phonetics
(same as SLHS 3010). Analysis of production and acoustics of the sounds of speech with an emphasis on American English; practice in broad and narrow transcription using the International Phonetic Alphabet.

Credit Hours: 3

LINGST 3210: Anatomy and Physiology of the Speech Mechanism
(same as SLHS 3210). Introduction to anatomical and functional aspects of the speech mechanism.

Credit Hours: 3

LINGST 3220: Speech Acoustics
(same as SLHS 3220). An introduction to the acoustic aspects of speech as they relate to the respiratory, phonatory, resonatory, and articulatory systems.

Credit Hours: 2

LINGST 3470: Culture as Communication
(same as ANTHRO 3470, COMMUN 3470). Study of the influence of culture on communication processes. Examines topics such as the impact of values, languages, and nonverbal behavior on intercultural interaction.

Credit Hours: 3

LINGST 3620: Languages of the World
(same as ENGLSH 3620). Introduction to the diversity of the world’s languages emphasizing historical relations and structural similarities and differences.

Credit Hours: 3

LINGST 3710: Survey of Minority and Creole Languages of the U.S. and the Caribbean
(same as SPAN 3710 and FRENCH 3710). Analysis of the state of the minority languages of the U.S. and the Creole languages of the Caribbean with particular attention to the social status of these languages and speakers’ attitudes toward them in context of ethnic, cultural, and national identity (taught in English).
