BM in Music with Emphasis in Music Theory

Degree Program Description

The Bachelor of Music (BM) degree with an emphasis in Music Theory teaches students how music works, critical listening, technical performance, and composition. It is designed for the student who intends to pursue a career as a composer, performer, or college teacher, as well as the student who plans to enter graduate school to pursue further study in one of these areas. In addition to an audition on the major instrument or voice, admission into the emphasis area requires an application and examination.

Major Program Requirements

The program requires 125-142 hours, including courses in music theory, music history, studio instruction, and ensembles.

In addition to the list of required courses below for the emphasis in Music Theory, students must complete the bachelor of music (http://catalog.missouri.edu/collegeofartsandscience/music/bm-music/), college and university requirements (http://catalog.missouri.edu/academicdegerequirements/universityrequirements/), including Arts & Science Foundation Requirements (http://catalog.missouri.edu/collegeofartsandscience/#undergraduatetext).
