

BHS in Clinical and Diagnostic Sciences

Degree Program Description

For this degree program, students must choose an emphasis area: Clinical Laboratory Science, Diagnostic Medical Ultrasound, Nuclear Medicine, Radiography, or Respiratory Therapy. Each emphasis area prepares graduates for critical diagnostic and disease management roles that are highly technical and primarily situated in acute care environments. These nationally accredited entry-to-professional practice programs emphasize experiential learning in a wide variety of clinical sites that are highly relevant to current workforce demands. Refer to the degree program descriptions for the emphasis areas for more details.
