Additional Information

The match between the interests of applicants and the areas of emphasis offered in the program will be an important consideration in the evaluation of applications.

All application materials are available online, and applications should be submitted electronically at https://app.applyyourself.com/?id=umc-grad

Although electronic applications are preferred, a student may also print out the application materials and mail them to the Religious Studies Department at the following address:

The Director of Graduate Studies
The Department of Religious Studies
221 Arts & Science Bldg
The University of Missouri
Columbia, MO 65211

International students should contact the Office for International Admissions. Students whose native language is not English should achieve a score of 550 or more on the TOEFL exam for admission to the program.

Applications must be completed at least six weeks before the start of graduate studies. Applicants seeking teaching assistantships or fellowships must submit applications no later that February 1. Notification of admission and awards will be made no later than April 1. Applicants who wish to enter the program in January of an academic year must submit materials no later than October 15.
