Minor in Art

Students in many fields find an art minor to be an excellent supplement to their academic programs, as well as a component of professional studies in fields such as Education, Business Administration, and Marketing. In the context of our visually oriented and media-driven culture, the art minor may serve individuals fulfilling a personal interest in art; those seeking to add visual skills to career preparation in such interdisciplinary fields such as Journalism, Architectural Studies, Apparel Management, and many more.
