Graduate Certificate in Dispute Resolution for Non-Lawyers

Conflict exists in all fields and settings. Successful leaders and other professionals must develop the skills necessary to identify conflict, understand its causes, and address it through various problem-solving methods that enhance the relationships among members of their workplace. Businesses and other organizations understand that effective conflict management and dispute resolution are essential to the well-being of their communities and, accordingly, to workplace productivity.

This online certificate can either be a stand alone certificate, or can be a "stackable certificate" as part of a master's degree program.

Requirements

To complete the certificate, a student must take a total of twelve credits, which amounts to four courses. Three of those courses are required; one may be chosen from the list of approved electives below. Requests to substitute an in-seat course for one below must be approved by the advisory committee.

Core Courses
LAW 6935	Dispute System Design	3
LAW 6945	Non-Binding Methods of Dispute Resolution	3
LAW 6932	Conflict and Conflict Management	3
Elective Courses
LAW 6905	LL.M. Arbitration Seminar	3
LAW 6934	Dispute Resolution in the Digital Age	3
LAW 6933	Cross Cultural Dispute Resolution	3